

98 Naval Gunners Will Share Tribune Marksmanship Fund

Original Contribution Made by Marjorie Sterrett, a School Girl, Augmented by Other N. Y. Children

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Seventy-one enlisted gunners of the battleship New Mexico, seven enlisted marksmen of the destroyer Sumner and twenty members of the torpedo crew of the submarine R-17 will participate in the division of the Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund, income, amounting to approximately $650, the naval bureau of gunnery announced today.

The cash prizes to these naval gunners who excelled in gunnery practice during the last year is made possible by the patriotic act of this little Brooklyn school girl, whose original contribution of 10 cents to the New York Tribune in 1917 was soon swelled by other gifts of 10 cents from school children to the sum of $22,178.57.

The sum was placed in trust with the Equitable Trust Company of New York, which each year distributes to the crack gunners of the American navy the annual income earned by the fund. The distribution is made on the basis of nine-fifths to the best turret crew of any battleship; two-fifths to the broadside gunners of any battleship, destroyer, cruiser or gunboat, and the remaining four-fifths to the best torpedo crew of the submarine class.

The crews of the Kansas, Buffalo and K-8 won the competition for the fiscal year 1916-17. The following fiscal year the fund was not distributed because the war prevented the fleet competition. The crews of the Utah and the Pennsylvania were the victors in the 1918-19 competition, but no award was made to the submarine class because of no competition. The winners in the fiscal year 1919-20 were the crews of the Oklahoma, Badger and R-15, and the gunners of the Arkansas, Reno and R-18 pulled down the prizes in the 1920-21 competition.

In addition to the cash awards to the various crews winning the fund

Police Dog Leaps From Bluff To Seize Saranac Rum Runner

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Peter Tansini, known to the prohibition officials as the "King of the Bootleggers," was captured by Bobcat, a police dog belonging to Captain Broadfield, of the state police, at the conclusion of an automobile chase early today that state troopers say was the most thrilling in the history of the war on rum running in the Adirondacks.

Tony Salretti, Tansini's son-in-law, was arrested at the same time with a load of liquor. Captain Broadfield and Sheriff Steenbarger had stationed their car at a road near Malone and were searching passing autos for a fugitive from the county jail when the rum runners approached in a machine and refused to stop. The officers gave chase, the run lasting for four hours.

Last year, commendatory letters were dispatched to-day by Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt to Captain G. W. Williams, commanding the New Mexico; Lieutenant Commander D. B. Beary, of the Sumner, and to Lieutenant L. D. Webb and C. de V. Headley, who commanded the R-17 during the period of the torpedo tests.

Prefers Cell to Bayonne
Escaped Asylum Inmate at First Liked City

Frank Borkis, forty-three, walked into Bayonne Police Headquarters yesterday and announced that he had escaped from the insane asylum at Laurel Hill, N. J. Detectives telephoned the institution and learned the man's story was true.

"Why did you run away?" asked Detective Saul Katcher.
"I thought I'd like it better in Bayonne," replied Borkis.

"Then why are you giving yourself up?"

"Well, you see, here I have to work if I expect to eat. Up there I don't have to do anything but eat."

both cars going at top speed. Near Tobeillo the rum car was in distress; it climbed a hill on the banks of the Salmon River with difficulty. Tansini, the driver, headed it toward the bluff over the river. Before it came to a stop both men plunged over the bank. The dog jumped after them, seized Tansini by the throat and dragged him to the shore.

Sheriff Steenbarger captured Salretti. During the automobile chase the rum runners broke beer bottles and scattered them behind their car, hoping to puncture the tires of the officers' car. They cut a hole in the top of their machine so the glass could be dropped in the center of the road.

Tansini, according to local officers, is the veteran of a hundred skirmishes with the troopers, and his car is riddled with bullets received in former escapes. He boasted he would never be taken alive.

Girl, 8, Is Killed at Play In Fall From Fire Escape

A fall of four oors to the courtyard at the rear of her home caused the death last night of Minnie Krawenock, eight years old, of 518 East Twelfth street.

The child was playing on the fire escape when she climbed over the guard rail, lost her balance and fell. Persons who saw her hurtling through the air summoned Patrolman Trinka, of the Fifth Street station, and he called an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. Dr. Cady, upon his arrival, said that the child had died instantly from a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Girl Clerk Sues for $10,000

Miss Minnie Berger, formerly employed in the Motor Vehicle Bureau of the State Tax Commission, filed a suit for $10,000 damages yesterday against John T. McNeil, an executive of that bureau.

Miss Berger alleges that Mr. McNeil made a statement to the effect that she was responsible for the leakage of certain information from the office where both were employed. The plaintiff says the accusation was false.

Flask Exhibitor Freed

Magistrate Releases Man Arrested in Cabaret

Leonard Wilcox, manufacturer, of 1234 State Street, Chicago, the first person arrested under the recent pocket flask prohibition department order, was released yesterday when arraigned before Magistrate John E. McGeehan. The Court also released Felix Ravina, waiter in the Piccadilly Rendezvous, 121 West Forty-fifth Street, where Wilcox is alleged to have exhibited the flask.

The Court said he released Wilcox because of his recent arrival in the city and the fact that he had not had time to learn about Prohibition Director Ralph A. Day's pocket flask manifesto. The waiter was released for lack of evidence.
